1. At the Deputies' Meeting I raised the question of [REDACTED] trip to Europe with the Air Force. There seemed to be no strong feelings for or against his going and the Director left it up to me and General Cabell to decide.

2. The Director announced that on his trip to Europe he had heard a number of complimentary remarks concerning the assistance which Headquarters had rendered to our people overseas when they were in need; for example, illnesses and deaths in families, etc. He asked Mr. Kirkpatrick to study this question further to see what he might recommend in the way of a focal point in the Agency which dependents of our overseas employees located in the States might contact in case of trouble. H

3. I again reminded the Director of our obligation to come up with some suggestions for the House Appropriations Committee as to how they might be kept better briefed. He again said that he would take this up with the White House. H
